¹Ranges are measured using the Standard Deviation of the Fund's annualised returns over 1 year periods. ²The IA's Mixed Investment sectors have strict guidelines as to how funds within those sectors should be managed. It is your Managers belief that an unconstrained approach may produce superior results, so he does not wish to be bound by those guidelines. We believe that the IA's managed sectors are a useful tool for comparing the performance of your fund to those with similar investment objectives, or its "peers".

FUND COMMENTARY

The rally in global equity markets continued in May as investors chose to focus on the positives of slowing infection rates and the tentative opening up of the US, European and UK economies and a degree of normalisation in Asia. The 8AM Multi Strategies made steady positive gains over the month led by the US, European and UK Equity holdings.

We have continued to increase the equity content within the portfolios from a very defensive position as it became clear that the lockdown measures were having the desired effect of stopping the spread of the virus. We also introduced exposure to inflation linked bonds and a very small amount in property introducing some new passive ETFs to complement our active fund picks, ensuring greater diversification across asset classes.

That said, we are not indiscriminately chasing this rally and have maintained a cautious tone to the overall portfolios, rather we are seeking to add alpha by using quantitative screens to identify funds that have demonstrated an ability to outperform their sector averages. We have become more optimistic that economic activity can snap back from the very depressed levels of lockdown, but do not believe that we will return any time soon to the levels seen pre-crisis. As such, the valuations on the broad equity markets still look expensive, although the huge monetary stimulus from central banks does provide support to this, but we would not be surprised to see volatility pick up as the tough economic rally takes its toll on company earnings. We hope to navigate a steady path through these turbulent times.
